THE TOP SERGEANT

His close-cropped head is grizzled,
But his eye is like a hawk's,
And you hear the ring of sabers
In his accents when he talks.
The man of Custer's battle
Is engraved upon his brow,
And when it comes to cussing,
Oh, he certainly knows how.

The C. O.'s braid and buttons,
Have the high official stamp,
Parade days, but the sergeant
Is the boss around the camp.
We hate him and we fear him,
But we're trying to a man
To be as nearly like him
As a bunch of rookies can.

FOOD LAW

To Reach Household—Sweeping Power to Compel Conservation in Every American Kitchen is Given in Bill Introduced By Ohio Senator.

Washington, January 15—Sweeping powers to compel food conservation in every American kitchen are given the president in a measure introduced by Senator Pomerene today.

The bill is aimed primarily at proprietors of hotels, restaurants and public eating houses, but it also broad enough to include domestic consumers.

Specifically the measure provides that the president may limit or discontinue early the use, also manufacture or distribution of foodstuffs to the extent he deems necessary from time to time.

Persons conducting public eating places, manufacturers, carriers, producers, distributors or other persons who fail to obey the president's orders shall be fined up to $1,000 and imprisoned up to six years.

Filing as a part of the records of the Department of State of any regulation issued pursuant to this act shall be deemed necessary notice to the public.

The act shall cease to be in effect when the war between the United States and Germany is terminated.

Citing that such powers as carried in the bill are necessary for the national security and the common defense, the measure gives in effect complete control of food to the president.

As existing circumstances warrant, the president is empowered to further limit, or even discontinue entirely the production and conservation of all food and foodstuffs.

The measure was drawn after a conference between Herbert Hoover, food administrator; Senator Pomerene of Ohio and Representative Lever of South Carolina.

It is designed to authorize steps to meet the increasing demands of aliens for food by compelling Americans to eliminate waste and conserve their own supply.

NEW CALL

To Add 500,000 To United States Army—New Bill Provides for Registration of all Young Men Who Have Become 21 Since June 5, 1917.

Washington, January 15—Immediately registration of all men who have become 21 since June 5, 1917, was proposed today in a resolution introduced by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon.

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, indorsed the bill in a letter to Chamberlain. The resolution would add 500,000 men to the National Army, it is estimated.

The resolution was one of a number of measures designed to increase the effectiveness of America's military forces.

Another measure provides alien population shall be taken into consideration in figuring quotas under the selective service law.

This is to do away with the great dissatisfaction in communities with a large alien population, some of which were drained of their American men by the first call, while aliens were left to take the jobs of the selected men.

Chamberlain's bill will compute quotas on the basis of the number of men in class one. As aliens as well as citizens had to register, this would take in the entire population.

The same measure removes legal obstacles to the calling of men in the class in which they are placed by their answers to the questionnaires.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska introduced a bill today to strike from the list of army and navy deserters those who deserted in peace times. The bill would restore them to citizenship.

The purpose of the measure is to increase the naval and military forces. Hitchcock believes most of those affected will return to army service.

WAR BLESSINGS

Confirmed pacifists—and really, most of us might be so classed—are beginning to understand that there are many things worse than war. We see, clearly enough, that national dishonor is worse, that a persistent menace to our national peace and safety is worse, that the necessity of maintaining a tremendous defensive armament indefinitely is worse. But we are awaking to the fact that there are many benefits besides riddance from these evils.

It can hardly be questioned that so far in our brief period of belligerency, without our having as yet attained any of our professed aims, the wholesome results of our war preparations have immensely outweighed the cost in money and effort.

Who can estimate the tremendous value of our new-born national unity, of our renaissance of patriotism, of our sudden growth to a consciousness of what America stands for to us and the world? Who can estimate the general spiritual uplift that the war has brought to a great people, in danger of losing its soul through materialism and selfishness? Who can estimate the value of the progress we have already made toward the permanent solution of our complex and menacing economic problems?

We want peace. We should desire nothing better than the restoration of peace tomorrow, because so many nations have suffered about all they can bear, and have learned their lessons. But if we were unmoved by consideration for our allies or our enemies, we should desire a continuation of the war until we have played and learned our lessons and mastered our problems.

Our own part, we might, without being considered unchristian, honestly prefer a year or two of actual war. Two of it, with our whole national heart and brain enlisted in the cause, might leave us with a spiritual regeneration, with a national and clearness of purpose, with reorganized and perfected industry, agriculture, commerce and finance which alone would more than justify the effort and loss. All this, be it understood, in addition to the realization of our world-ideals for universal peace and democracy.

It may be an odd view to take. It may, at first blush, seem a shocking view. But think it over. Wouldn't a quick peace, checking so many of our big, beneficent activities in their infancy, be a misfortune for us?

SCHOOLGIRL FINERY

In city after city during the past few years mothers and teachers have risen in arms over the silly clothing of school-girls. In some cities uniforms have been adopted. In others the mother-teacher clubs have contended themselves with making some of the worst forms of silliness taboo. Women's magazines have taken up the cry for simple clothing for school-girls. Much is being done, but more remains to do.

The latest city to grow heated on the subject is Cleveland. The Cleveland Congress of Mothers recently devoted a meeting to the subject. The consensus of opinion was that girls who are not able to afford the gaudy georgette waists, silk petticoats and high-heeled shoes of their more well-to-do classmates become mortified and discouraged and drop out of school. The congress ordered a letter sent to the superintendent, asking his co-operation in procuring a simpler style of dress.

That a girl should be obliged to forego the education which state and city offer her because she cannot afford clothing until to her years is not only ridiculous and disgusting but really serious. The idea that the minds of the growing generation should be concentrated upon clothing to any such extent is perilous of proportion.

Wearing of uniforms may help a little, but it creates a new difficulty. It eliminates the problem of standards of dress during school years, but simply delays it. The girl must sooner or later face the question of what is right and suitable in the way of dress. It is better, say some wise teachers, that the question be met and solved while she has the school to help her.

The teaching of simple principles of beauty in class helps some. But it is useless unless backed up by the example of the girls who can afford to dress as they like. If these girls dress with simplicity, beauty and good sense, the others will follow. If they follow ugly fads, the others will sacrifice everything else in life for foolish dress—or will lose their schooling.

It's largely up to mothers. Half dozen mothers with good standards and back bones can pull up a whole school.

LOVE IN UNIFORM

Mr. Chester B. Lord, General Superintendent of the Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, spoke before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at its convention upon the close connection between uniforms and matrimony. He said:

"In my plant there are on an average two marriages a month, and they are always successful. This is chiefly due to the conditions under which the women work, for they wear a factory uniform and must depend entirely upon their natural advantages to attract the men. Clothes' consciousness and woman's vanity are eliminated."

This is pretty interesting, but is by no means new. It has been known for some time that the woman who works with a man, side by side under the same conditions, makes as a rule a better comrade in the long run than the woman who lures a man into matrimony by employing all the devices of clothes and sex to capture his emotions.

A large part of the clothes-attractiveness upon which so many women depend is just camouflage. A man is razzled by the arts of the toilet, and forgets, oft-times, that there may be no brain beneath the soft curling locks, above the twinkling feet. And when he comes to meet the big responsibilities, the big decisions, perhaps the big vicissitudes of life, it is brains and stability on the part of his wife which make her a real partner and helpmeet.

In the factory or workshop where all women wear a uniform, where all are subjected to a daily grind which leaves little time for elaborate coiffures or other prinkings, a woman's big natural qualities stand out. Both men and women have a chance to see each other under conditions demanding perseverance, cheerfulness and other substantial qualities if the worker is to make good. No wonder the marriages at Mr. Ford's plant are successful.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Maysville People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time. Maysville people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ill is looking for.

Fred Dresel, tailor and justice of the peace, 1238 E. Second St., Maysville, says: "I was troubled by inflammation of the bladder and annoyances from my kidneys. The kidney secretions burned in passage and often were retarded. I had severe pains across the small of my back which greatly interfered with my work. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Wood & Son's Drug Store, gave me prompt relief."

Mr. Dresel gave the above statement on February 6, 1908, and on November 14, 1916, he added: "I have had the same faith in Doan's Kidney Pills today as ever, for I haven't had any trouble with my kidneys since I last recommended them."

Mr. Dresel is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, the same that Mr. Dresel has twice publicly recommended—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60c all stores. HEADS OF MINE WORKERS ARE CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Washington, January 14—President Frank J. Hayes and nine other officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America were today ordered by the supreme court to show cause why they should not be declared in contempt of court for violating injunctions restraining representatives of the organization from attempting to organize employees of the Hinchman Coal and Coke Company of Wheeling, W. Va.

The court ordered the miners' officials to appear in court at noon March 4 to show cause why they should not be adjudged guilty of contempt the Supreme Court and of its authority and jurisdiction and punished accordingly.

Those named in the proceedings are: President Hayes, Vice President John L. Lewis, and Secretary-Treasurer William Green, of the United Mine Workers; John Moore, of Columbus, Ohio, president of District No. 6; William Roy, of Bridgeport, O., a sub-district president, and Joe Kreamer, D. W. Lewis, Peter Bartorlo, Mike Stefanski, Steixe Kachinsky, all of Marshall county, W. Va.

The court declined to order Jacob Semarkavick, C. M. McCabe, Tom Bawshe, Orgie Freeman, Jim Murray and Jim Barton, also of Marshall county, as asked in the moving petition.

The contempt proceedings are an outgrowth of years of injunction litigation between the miners union and the coal company. In 1907, federal judge Dayton in West Virginia declared the miners' union an illegal organization and issued a broad injunction prohibiting "peaceful picketing and persuasion of the company's employees to join the union."

The case was appealed and a higher court dismissed the injunctions and reversed the decision that the miners organization was illegal.

In bringing the contempt petition the coal company represented that because of intimidations and threats the company's Glendale mines was idle for lack of workmen and that the

ENGLAND TO RAISE 450,000 MORE MEN

London, January 14—Between 420,000 and 450,000 troops must be raised at once in this country, Sir, Auckland Geddes, minister of national service, told the House of Commons today.

Sir Auckland said the government had decided not to introduce conscription in Ireland for the present, nor to change the military age limit.

Great Britain and the colonies, he added, had raised 7,000,000 men.

"Plain facts," said the minister, "do not support the statement that the armies are melting for lack of recruits and that recruiting has broken down."

The withdrawal of Russia means that not less than 1,600,000 men will be made available on the western front.

"Notwithstanding Russia's defection, the resources of the Allies and America are sufficient to assure victory, and nothing but a psychological catastrophe can save the central powers."

Sir Auckland said the government had examined in detail the position of the Allies and that the results were not unsatisfactory.

"Excluding Russia and Rumania," he continued, "the Allies have a substantial superiority in fighting and rationing strength over the Central Powers. From statistical standpoint the strength of the enemy gives no cause for anxiety."

The case was appealed and a higher court dismissed the injunctions and reversed the decision that the miners organization was illegal.

THE WASHINGTON

EXPLORING UNCLE SAM'S LARDER

First Year-end Food Inventory Provided for by Congress Proving Vast Undertaking—Bureau of Markets of U. S. Department of Agriculture Calling for Reports From Army of Food Holders.

Washington—How much food has Uncle Sam in his national larder with which to start the New Year? How adequately can he feed until harvest time his many millions of civilians and soldiers? Will it be necessary during the coming twelve months for his citizens to eat war bread? Can he furnish the share which he ought of the daily ration needed by the fighting men of the allies? And can be supplement somewhat, perhaps, the meager fare of the friendly neutrals to whom the war has brought the pinch of hunger?

These are the big and vital questions so important to the conduct of the war, which the Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture is seeking to answer by carrying out the war emergency food survey provided for by the last Congress. All over the country today first steps are being taken to answer these questions. Hundreds of thousands of persons in control of food supplies, large and small, are filling out schedules mailed to them by the army of employees which the Bureau of Markets has assembled in Washington to conduct the big year-end food inventory. These schedules will show the quantities of more than one hundred different foods on hand December 31, 1917, quantities on hand December 31, 1916, for comparison, and the quantities shipped out by freight or express that have not been delivered to the consignee. To the totals of these figures will be added quantities held by retail food dealers in certain counties where store-to-store canvassers are being made. The latter intensive surveys will be made in order that the figures for the entire country can be checked. In addition, about 40,000 selected families will report on special schedules regarding the stocks of food on hand, and the ways in which they utilize certain food products. These figures will be used as a basis upon which to estimate the amount of food in the more than 20 million homes of the country. When all this information has been tabulated, Uncle Sam will have available for the first time, sorely needed data upon which to formulate plans for efficient production and wise use of the munition which is of greatest importance in winning the war—food.

On the Trail of the Food Supply The trail of the country's food supply is a winding and many-branched one, the Bureau of Markets has found. A surprising variety of dealers and "holders" go to make up the vast army of individuals and concerns that have in their hands the potential breakfast, dinners, and suppers of the Nation. Among the most important custodians of this vast food supply are owners of grain elevators, common and cold storage concerns, meat packers, carriers, exporters, wholesale and retail grocers, bakers, confectioners, butchers, and other dealers. Schools, hospitals, asylums and other institutions, it has been found, are much larger holders of food than had been supposed, while another important group which carries considerable quantities of foodstuffs in its pantries is made up of hotels, restaurants, commissaries, etc.

Uncle Sam himself holds stores of edibles. These are not alone at Army and Navy bases, but also at immigration stations, in hospitals, on reclamation and other engineering projects. Large quantities of food also are held by the purchasing agencies in this country of foreign governments.

To every dealer and holder of food, the Bureau of Markets has attempted to mail a schedule on which the official returns of holdings is to be made. This has involved a vast amount of preliminary work, for before blank was sent out, the most complete list ever made of handlers and holders of food had to be built up from various sources and checked and rechecked. This list now contains between a half and three-quarters of a million names, and covers concerns from the vast packing plants of Chicago and the great flour mills of Minneapolis, to the "hole-in-the-wall" shops of New York's East Side and the cross-roads stores of the Ozarks.

Food Survey Act Has Teeth The guard against my food handlers being missed by failure to include them in the mailing list, the Bureau of Markets has sent supplies of schedules to its agents throughout the country for distribution, and at the same time has announced that all individuals and concerns handling foods who do not receive schedules through the mails by January 2, will be expected to apply to the local agencies for copies. Congress put teeth in the act authorizing the making of a food survey by providing that persons willfully failing to make returns when called upon, or willfully making incorrect returns, will be subjected to a fine of not more than $1,000, or imprisonment for not more than one year.

SEVEN BURN TO DEATH Bowling Green, Ky., January 14—Scott Franklin, a negro farmer, his wife and five children were incinerated when their home near Smith's Grove, burned Saturday night, the long, slow cooking makes them tender. Game and poultry are good.

MAKE A LITTLE MEAT GO A LONG WAY
(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture)
(U. S. Food Administration)

Use Savory Stews and Meat Pies
Do you know how good they are? They may be so varied that you can have a different one every day in the week, and all of them delicious. It needs only small pieces of meat to give flavor to a hearty dish.

Don't think that you must eat a lot of meat to be strong. Meat is good to help build up the body, but so are many other foods.

In these dishes part of your building material comes from the more expensive meat and part from the cheaper peas, beans, hominy, and barley. The little meat with the vegetables and cereals will give your body what it needs.

Savory Stews

Try them. They can be a whole meal and a nutritious one. These recipes serve five people.

Here is an English stew that is especially good:

Hot Pot of Mutton and Barley

1 pound mutton, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup pearly barley, 1 tablespoon salt, 4 potatoes, 3 onions, celery tops or other seasoning herbs.

Cut the mutton in small pieces, and brown with the onion in fat cut from meat. This will help make the meat tender and improve the flavor. Pour this into a covered sauceman. Add 2 quarts water and the barley. Simmer for $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours. Then add the potatoes cut in quarters, seasoning herbs, or chopped sweet peppers add to the flavor.

5. Many left-overs may be used—not only meat and vegetables, but rice or hominy.

How to Cook the Stews

All kinds of stews are cooked in just about the same way. Here are directions which will serve for making almost any kind.

Cut the meat in small pieces and brown with the onion in the fat cut from the meat. Add the salt and pepper, seasoning vegetables (onion, celery tops, etc.), 2 quarts of water, and the rice, or other cereal, if it is to be used. Cook the stew for half an hour, then add the vegetables except potatoes. Cook the stew for half an hour, add the potatoes cut in quarters. Cook for another half an hour and serve.

The fireless cooker may well be used, the meat and the vegetables being put in the same time.

Left-overs or canned vegetables need only to be heated through. Add them 15 minutes before serving.

Dried peas or beans should be soaked overnight and cooked for 3 hours before adding to the stew; or, better, cook them over night in a fireless cooker.

Meat Pies

Another good way to use a little meat. Have you ever used rice, corn-meal mush, or hominy for a crust? This is less work than a pastry and saves wheat.

4 cups cooked corn meal, rice, or

HUNS BOMBARD ENGLISH PORT, KILLING THREE

London, January 15—Yarmouth was bombarded from the sea during the night, Lord French, director of home defense, reported today.

Twenty shells were hurled into the port.

Three were killed and 10 injured. The damage was not serious, French said.

The bombardment continued for five minutes.

The fusilade was carried out with extraordinary rapidity. Shells burst over various sections of Yarmouth, and many roofs and chimneys were smashed.

The Germans carried out their bombardment with careful system. The first shell fired was a star shell, the light from which vividly showed the town below it. Then came the hurtling salvo of shells.

The German craft was believed either to be one of the largest and newest types of German submarines or else a cruiser.

The Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, South, has postponed its regular meeting from this afternoon until next week on account of the bad weather.

T. W. Menbome of Virginia is here visiting his son-in-law, Mr. O. G. Rucker, auctioneer of the Independent-Central.

Eggs are now retailing here at 70 and 75 cents a dozen.

PROMINENT POLITICIAN DIES

Paris, Ky., January 15—J. Perry Hutchcraft, 58 years old, prominent Republican politician, died here yesterday morning. He was a son of the late Judge Richard W. Hutchcraft, his mother being a Miss Croxton, sister of General Thomas Croxton, of Civil War fame and later United States Minister to Brazil.

In the Mason County Court yesterday the inventory and appraisement of the personal estate of William P. Leach, deceased, was produced in court, filed and ordered recorded.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist Church will not meet this afternoon because of the cold weather.

The government thermometer this morning registered 5 degrees below zero.
